Introduction to Data Type

The screenshot shows the Tableau interface with a table named 'Sheet1 (Tableau Data)' containing 28 fields and 1000 rows. The columns are: City, Interview Date, DOJ, Current CTC, Team Leader, Category, Designation, and CTC Offer. Red arrows point to the data type icons for each column: Geographic for City, Date and Time for Interview Date, String for DOJ, String for Current CTC, String for Team Leader, String for Category, String for Designation, and Number for CTC Offer. A red box highlights the column headers, and a red arrow points to the 'Data Type' label in the left sidebar.

Rename the column headers.

The screenshot shows the same Tableau interface, but with a right-click context menu open over the 'DOJ' column header. The menu options include 'Rename', 'Copy values', 'Hide', 'Create Calculated Field...', 'Create Group...', 'Pivot (select multiple fields)', and 'Describe...'. A red arrow points to the 'Rename' option, and another red arrow points to the 'DOJ' header with the text 'Open dropdown'. A red box highlights the 'Rename' option, and a red arrow points to it with the text 'Rename Column Header or double click on header'.

How to change the source location of the data source
If the dataset file's location changes then

Open this dropdown

Click on Edit Connection
